Message from the Chair

The Urbana Civilian Police Review Board (the "UCPRB") was established by the Urbana City Council to provide a fair and independent process for the review of citizen complaints concerning sworn police officers. The UCPRB is charged with offering a citizen's perspective to the review of complaints and with providing a systematic means to promote and maintain positive police community relations. The UCPRB will strive to review complaints in a fair, thorough and timely manner and report their findings to the Mayor and Chief of Police.

Message from the Human Relations Officer

The Urbana Civilian Police Review Board's Third Annual Report summarizes the Board's most recent operational period. This annual report provides data on complaints received, investigated and concluded during the period of January 1, 2013 to December 31, 2013.

The report provides an overview of complainant demographics, complaints by location, and complaints by classification type.

Respectfully Submitted,

Todd E. Rent

Chapter 1: Introduction

Background

On September 1, 2005, Mayor Laurel Prussing established a taskforce to explore the creation of a local police oversight committee. The task force consisted of members from a broad spectrum of the community including city staff, concerned citizens, the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), as well as representatives from community groups.

Over the course of the next year and a half, the taskforce developed a draft ordinance. Concurrently, the City and FOP entered into an agreement governing some of the key aspects of the relationship between the officers, the City and the proposed board.

The draft "Ordinance Establishing a Civilian Police Review Board" was introduced to the Urbana City Council's Committee of the Whole (the "Committee") on July 9, 2007. At the meeting, several members of the community provided input regarding the draft ordinance. Ultimately, the Committee determined that the draft ordinance needed revision in several areas concerning the scope and nature of the UCPRB's authority.

For the next several weeks, members of the community, Urbana Police Department, and city staff worked to develop a draft that would address many of the concerns raised during the initial public meeting. As a result of those efforts, the first version of the Ordinance was passed on August 6, 2007.

In the springs of 2009 and 2011, the Ordinance was submitted for reauthorization. The reauthorization processes provided an opportunities for community stakeholders to publicly voice their opinions regarding the operation of the Ordinance. On April 31, 2011, the City Council passed the current version of the Ordinance.

Initial Board Training

Training is a crucial factor in the success of any citizen driven law enforcement oversight agency. Section 19-23 of the Ordinance directs the HRO to develop written standards for orientation and continuing education for all UCPRB members, subject to Mayor and City Council approval. Pursuant to that direction, the training developed by the HRO was intended to (1) align group mission and understanding, (2) increase group credibility through developing subject matter expertise and (3) avoid unnecessary legal liability.

The UCPRB's training was drawn from several sources including "Recommended Orientation and Training: Board, Committee, and Commission Members" and "Recommended Minimum Training for A New Civilian Oversight Board or for New Members to a Board" distributed by the National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement's (NACOLE), Citizen Oversight of Law Enforcement edited by Justina Cintron Perino and Civilian Review of Police: Approaches and Implementation written by Peter Finn for the U.S. Department of Justice.

Complaint Form

Section 19-28(b) of the Ordinance directs the UCPRB and Chief of Police to collaborate on the development of a citizen complaint form. Based upon the key role that the form would have in the complaint process, the UCPRB viewed the development of this form as a matter of first importance. As such, a draft of the Urbana Police Action Citizen Complaint Form (the "Complaint Form") was first reviewed by the UCPRB at its second meeting on May 28, 2009. The UCPRB members recommended several revisions be made.

The current version of the Complaint Form was approved by the UCPRB on June 25, 2009.

Complaint Process

The complaint process is initiated by the submission of a Complaint Form to either the Police Department or the Human Relations Office ("HRO"). Complaint forms may be obtained from the Police Department, the HRO or online at <http://www.urbanaininois.us/residents/citizen-police-complaint>. Once completed, the complaint form may be notarized at several community locations. Local notary services may be obtained, free of charge, at the Urbana Free Library, the Urbana Post Office, and the Champaign County Clerk's Office, to name a few. In addition to these community locations, several notaries are located within the City of Urbana municipal building, specifically in the Finance Department (1st floor), the City Clerk's Office (1st floor), the Legal Division (2nd Floor) and the Executive Department (2nd Floor). Complainants may receive assistance with the citizen complaint process at the Urbana Human Relations Office.

Once filed, the citizen complaint is catalogued and distributed to both the Police Department and the UCPRB c/o the HRO. Upon notification that a complaint has been filed, the Chief of Police will assign a member of the police command staff to conduct an internal investigation into the allegations, the CPRB is notified of the initiation of the complaint and the complaint is filed at the HRO office for CPRB review. Once all relevant and available information has been gathered, the findings are then submitted to the Chief of Police for review. The Chief of Police reviews the findings and mails a certified letter to the complainant and UCPRB stating his determination. For those complaints that are eligible for appeals according to the requirements set forth in the Ordinance, an Appeals Form is enclosed with the determination letter.

Once the determination letter is received via certified mail, the complainant has thirty (30) calendar days in which to appeal the Chief's findings. As discussed above, the complainant may choose to complete the attached Appeals Forms or notify the Human Relations Office that he or she wishes to file an appeal. Upon notification of an appeal, the UCPRB has forty-five (45) working days in which to either hold the hearing or provide a written explanation to the Complainant as to why the time limit could not be met. Once the hearing is scheduled, the HRO will provide the UCPRB members with copies of the complaint as well as any materials gathered in the course of the Police Department's internal investigation.

Once the hearing is convened the complainant will have an opportunity to present the basis for his/her appeal. A representative from the Police Department will also provide an explanation of the Department's investigation, findings and conclusions. Once both parties have had the opportunity to present their various perspectives, the UCPRB members will have an opportunity to pose questions to either party.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the UCPRB will deliberate and vote on a ruling. The possible rulings as outlined in the Ordinance are as follows:

After reaching a determination, the UCPRB will notify both the complainant and the Police Department. If the UCPRB does not sustain the Police Chief's finding, the HRO will convene a meeting between the UCPRB and the Chief to discuss the differences that resulted in the non-concurrence. The Human Relations Office will then develop and transmit a thorough and objective written summary of the meeting to the Mayor.

Complaint Determinations

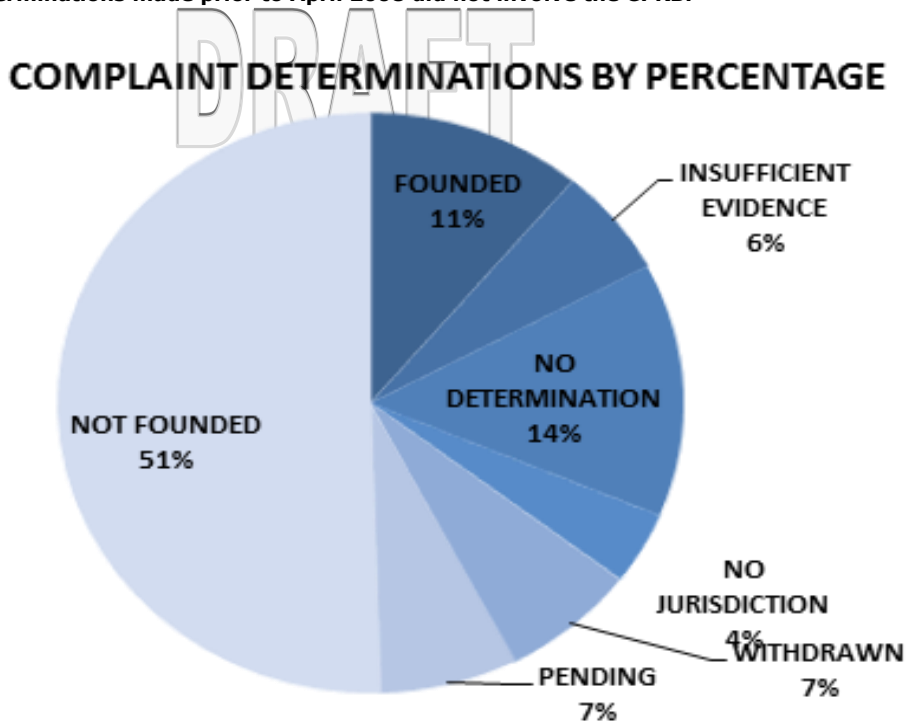

Once the UPD investigation has been completed, the Police Chief makes a determination as to the veracity of the allegations. It should be noted that such determinations are made prior to the CPRB’s active involvement. The determinations will generally fall into the following categories:

- (1) Founded. This finding is appropriate when the Chief determines that the investigatory findings either support the initial allegations or raise some other concern about a police officer’s conduct
- (2) Not Founded. This finding is appropriate when the Chief determines that the investigatory findings do not support either the initial allegations and/or fail to raise additional concerns.
- (3) Insufficient Evidence. This finding indicates that there was insufficient information upon which to either confirm or deny the Complainant’s allegations.
- (4) No Jurisdiction. This finding indicates that based upon the particular findings of fact or untimely filing, the UPD does not have jurisdiction in the matter.
- (5) Resolved. This finding indicates that the complainant and UPD have reached a mutually acceptable resolution.
- (6) Pending. These cases are either in progress or on hold pending the outcome of a court matter.

In the time period between January 2005 and December 2013, there have been eleven (11) founded complaints, fifty (50) complaints determined to be not founded, four (4) findings of no jurisdiction, fourteen (14) findings of no determination, six (6) findings of insufficient evidence, and seven (7) withdrawn cases.
