Program Description

IMC Youth Arts and Culture Leadership Academy will provide programming for Urbana youth to build leadership skills and explore arts, media, and entertainment careers. This group will meet once a week beginning in January of 2025 to build community, meet local arts and culture leaders, and help plan our youth showcase, an annual IMC event. The group will also design and lead outreach for a new community space at the IMC called 3rd SPACE, which is designed to be a safe, engaging, enrichment space for middle and high school aged youth.

The IMC Youth Arts and Culture Leadership Academy will begin with an outreach phase composed of 3-5 off-site artist presentations. Practicing artists will be selected to attend classes at the Urbana Middle School and Urbana High School and local after-school programs such as the Well Experience. In addition to providing a hands-on arts or cultural activity led by a community artist, the program coordinator will introduce the IMC, the Youth Advisory Council application, and the youth 3rd Space opening timeline.

Once participants are selected, the group will begin meeting weekly in January 2025. From January to May, the group will work through three main projects that integrate the arts, business skills, and marketing. Each project will require them to create a mini-budget and delegate event-planning tasks including marketing, activity planning, space design, and facilitating or emceeing the event. Youth will also continue to visit with local artists to broaden their knowledge of the local arts scene.
